To: Wofford Staff WoffordStaff@Wofford.Edu

PLEASE DO NOT REPLY TO THIS MESSAGE. Please send responses to Dan Mathewson at mathewsondb@wofford.edu.

Dear Colleagues,

We are writing to solicit your nominations of students to participate in a special Re:Thinking Education event.

On Thursday April 18, there will be two on-campus Aspen-style seminars, one at 11:00am and one at 2:30pm, both led by Todd Breyfogle, Director of Seminars at the Aspen Institute, and both focusing on the topic of "Liberal Education in a Global Context." The seminars will be 90 minutes each and will be organized around 2 or 3 short readings, which participants will receive ahead of time.

A total of 30 students will be invited to participate in the seminars, 15 in each session. We have already emailed invitations to students who applied this year for the Aspen Institute Internship; we are hoping to round out the list of invitees with those you nominate.

Students from any class, freshman through senior, are eligible.

Please send your nominations to Dan Mathewson (mathewsondb@wofford.edu) by Thursday, April 11; he hopes to email invitations by the end of the week.

Thank you,

Dan Mathewson, Anne Rodrick, & Kaci Brasher

TRANSITIONS MENTORING PROGRAM

Mission

Transitions is a program designed to enhance the experience of students at Wofford College. While emphasis is placed on students of color, all students are encouraged and welcomed to participate in the various workshops, seminars, and programs that are offered. The program's core mission is to Transition students "into" and "out of" the Wofford College community, add lasting value to the Wofford experience for students of color, and make a positive difference in the lives of all Wofford College graduates.

Leadership Team Responsibilities and Duties

- Recruit upper-class mentors to serve for the upcoming academic year.
- Prepare for the upcoming academic year over the summer, including but not limited to, coordinating with Orientation Staff, planning Orientation events for incoming first-year students, ordering Transitions t-shirts for program participants, developing an overall marketing plan, etc.
- Send introductory correspondence to underrepresented first-year students explaining the mentor program and explaining how they can participate.
- Plan the mentor-mentee matching event within the first two weeks of the Fall semester.
- Plan monthly meetings and informational events for mentors and mentees.
- Plan community events for the entire school year to encourage mentor-mentee social interaction (at least one Fall event and one Spring event).

Wofford
ASSOCIATION OF MULTICULTURAL STUDENTS

Mission

The Association of Multicultural Students (AMS) exists to provide a cultural and social outlet for all students at Wofford College. Additionally, it strives to maintain a spirit of unity among all students of color. AMS is designed to enhance the collegiate experience of students of color and thereby build better interpersonal relationships across the entire campus community. All members of the Wofford College student body are eligible to be members of AMS.

Officer Responsibilities and Duties

President:

- The President represents the organization and is responsible for maintaining a positive image for AMS and encouraging all members to do the same. Along with the Vice President, the President will organize events and will be the source contact for any questions or concerns from members or the Wofford community regarding events or the organization in general. The President is also responsible for attending Chamber meetings, scheduling business meetings for the organization, and updating the organization's website.

Vice President:

- The Vice President will work closely with the President in organizing events, contacting speakers, making reservations, etc. If the President is unable to fulfill any duties for events or for representing AMS for any reason, the Vice President is then responsible for representing the organization and fulfilling those duties.

Secretary:

- Responsible for general note taking during meetings, presenting highlights from previous meetings, and relaying highlights via email to members that may have been absent from meetings. The Secretary will be in charge of keeping record of the Point System for each member's attendance of meetings and events. Lastly, the Secretary will handle advertisement of events for the Wofford Community and AMS members, including putting announcements Wofford's Daily Announcements.

Treasurer:

- Responsible for keeping track of expenses and any spending done on behalf of the organization. The Treasurer should have a breakdown of the expenses and dates of events throughout each semester and keep record of all receipts that will be turned into Campus Union. Also, the Treasurer will be responsible for filling out allocation forms for future semester with the assistance of the President and/or Vice President. The Treasurer will be referred to with any questions or concerns regarding money or expenses for the organization.

1. Why are you interested in a leadership role in AMS?
2. Please list your current on-campus and off-campus involvements, and anticipated involvements for 2013-2014.
3. What leadership experiences have you had in the past?
4. Briefly describe your leadership style and qualities that you would bring to the position.
5. What future programmatic ideas do you have for AMS?

Subject: SPECIAL MESSAGE FROM ADMISSION OFFICE: Wofford Unscripted - parking and reception
Date: April 12, 2013 at 2:47 PM
To: Wofford Staff WoffordStaff@Wofford.Edu

Dear Faculty and Staff,

Wofford Unscripted, a new on-campus event for admitted students (replacing the Night and Day program) will be held this Saturday, April 13, and Monday, April 15. Many of the students attending this event are using their time on campus to help make their final college decision. We'd like to request your help with a few things.

On Monday, in particular, there will be 85 students and their parents on campus for this event beginning about 9:30am and staying through 4:00pm. In an effort to be welcoming and accommodating, public safety will close the admission parking lot for the duration of the day on Monday to everyone except our visitors. We know that several of you park in this lot, so we plan to offer a golf cart shuttle service on Monday morning between 8:00am and 8:45am from the gravel lot across from Old Main for those who are displaced.

At 3:00pm on Monday, we will end the event with a dessert reception at the Michael S. Brown Village Center. We hope you'll join us to help answer questions and encourage these students to choose Wofford. No need to sign up – just head on over for a late afternoon dessert!

As always, thanks for your support.

IMPORTANT MESSAGE FROM PRESIDENTIAL SEARCH COMMITTEE

To: All Wofford faculty, staff, students

The Presidential Search Committee is pleased to have narrowed the pool of candidates down to a small number of finalists. Plans are now under way for each of these finalists to visit the Wofford campus individually over the next couple of weeks. During their visits, opportunities will be provided for stakeholders—students, faculty, staff, trustees—to meet with each candidate in one or more group settings. Please watch your email for announcements of these upcoming dates.

The first visit by a Presidential finalist is this Tuesday and Wednesday, April 16-17. It is important that we make every effort through this process to maintain a sense of confidentiality, so there are no plans for a formal announcement of the names of all of the finalists, and information about each one visiting will be made available to you shortly before his or her arrival. Suffice it to say that these visits are crucially important steps in this search process, and your role as a citizen of the Wofford community is taken very seriously now that the search has advanced to this stage. We hope you will plan to participate to the fullest extent possible. Please watch for an email announcement about the schedule for the upcoming visit next Tuesday and Wednesday.

Have You Purchased "The Cup" Yet?

Details: Fierce Green Fire (FGF) would like to announce the continuation of the second annual sale of "The Cup" starting this Wednesday in front of Burwell from 11:30 a.m. - 1:30 p.m. To purchase these tumblers, simply bring your W number with you to lunch to pay with terrier bucks or pay with cash. There is a limited number so buy while you can. The benefits of these cups (other than the fact they look super cool) is students and faculty get free drinks in Burwell, Zach's, the Michael S. Brown Village Center, and all sports events except for football games, where the drinks are half off. Please help us reduce paper waste on campus by buying and using "The Cup". Thank you, FGF.

To: Wofford faculty

Thanks to so many of you for making yourselves available to meet with our first visiting presidential finalist in recent days. From all perspectives thus far, this was a successful visit; undeniably grueling for the candidate, but many in our community had an opportunity to engage in the process, which is what the Search Committee and trustees want to happen.

With the help of our Search Consultant, Tom Courtice, a response vehicle for providing feedback about the visits is being developed and will be distributed to you. It will be of the “survey monkey” online feedback variety, and ABG Search will be responsible for compiling the data received from it. For the time being, you might jot down any notes from the first visit that you will want to include once the survey is sent to you.

For the sake of your calendar planning, let me alert you that the next two visitors will be on campus next Monday, April 22, and next Friday, April 26. Plans currently are for there to be sessions exclusively with faculty on each of those days at 11:45 am (concluding at 12:30 pm), most likely in the Anna Todd Wofford Center. Also, on each of those two days, there will be a second opportunity to visit with the candidates in the “all campus” gatherings; though not entirely pinned down, those will likely occur at 4:00 pm on Monday, April 22 and 3:30 pm on Friday, April 26, both times in Leonard Auditorium.

A fourth finalist will be visiting. The tentative timing for that visit is Tuesday, April 30 – Wednesday, May 1, but that schedule is too fluid at the moment to confirm. But we are working on it!

Thank you for your keen interest and valued input. And, too, for your patience in a fast-moving situation.

IMPORTANT MESSAGE ABOUT PRESIDENTIAL SEARCH—FEEDBACK FROM CAMPUS VISITS

To: Wofford campus community

It is important to the Presidential Search Committee and the Board of Trustees to be able to receive feedback from community members who have had the opportunity to attend presentations by the finalists during their respective campus visits. An online survey instrument has been developed, and those of you who participated in the visit of Finalist #1 who was on campus yesterday and today, April 16-17, are invited to complete it. The survey is at this link (and remember to click “Submit” at the bottom when finished):

<http://www.surveymonkey.com/s/2RYMPFQ>

AGBSearch, the consulting firm with whom Wofford is working during this presidential search, will compile the results for presentation to the Committee and to the trustees. Thank you in advance for your participation.

Hi everyone,

I'm excited to announce that the Staff Advisory Council (SAC) has received final approval and will begin functioning as a recognized campus group effective immediately. This is the first campus group created by staff, for staff, in the college's history.

The purpose of the Staff Advisory Council will be to:

- 1. Consider matters presented to it by staff members who do not serve on the President's Cabinet and present these to the President in a monthly meeting.
- 2. Make reports to the staff on matters that should be brought to its attention.

Over the past months, an ad hoc policies and procedures committee has been busy researching similar organizations at our peer institutions and creating an operational structure for the SAC. Their final responsibility will be to organize and administer elections for the first SAC representatives.

More information regarding representative responsibilities and elections will follow next week. In the meantime, I encourage you to reach out to a member of the ad hoc committee with any questions about the SAC (and to thank them for their hard work and dedication to bringing this group to fruition!):

Workplace Stress Epidemic

Nearly 50% of workers suffer from moderate-to-severe stress while on the job, according to a recent survey. And 66% of employees report that they have difficulty focusing on tasks at work because of stress. Stress has been called the "health epidemic of the 21st century" by the World Health Organization and is estimated to cost American businesses up to $300 billion a year.

In addition to reporting difficulties with focusing on tasks at work, employees also said that stress was responsible for errors and/or missed deadlines (21%), trouble getting along with co-workers/superiors (15.5%), missed days (14.9%), and lateness (14.4%).

Due in part to the prevalence of stress in today's workplace, behavioral disability costs have increased more than 300% in the past decade and account for 30% of all disability claims. In addition, medical doctors suggest that stress is the causative factor of illness underlying more than 70% of all visits to the family doctor.

Emotions can spread throughout the office if they aren't handled properly, especially if you're not dealing with your own stress levels well. Listen to some music, take a quick break to visit a website that makes you laugh, do some easy desk stretches or find another five-minute, office-appropriate stress buster to help you out.

this issue*P.2: National Stress Awareness Month*P.3: Emotional Driving*P.4: Distracted Driving*P.5: Recipe Corner and Lemons*National Stress Awareness Month

Sponsored by The Health Resource Network (HRN), a non-profit health education organization, Stress Awareness Month is a national, cooperative effort to inform people about the dangers of stress, successful coping strategies, and harmful misconceptions about stress that are prevalent in our society.

Take time to unwind.

Stress happens. Sometimes it's unavoidable, at times it's unbearable. It's healthy to relax, renew, and get refreshed. That's why taking time for yourself is a necessity. Stress does not merely afflict your mind; it can also affect your body's tissues at a cellular level. In fact, long-term stress can lead to a wide range of illnesses – from headaches to stomach disorders to depression – and can even increase the risk of serious conditions like stroke and heart disease. If you understand that there is a mind/stress/health connection then you can manage stress and improve your health and well-being.

The Fight or Flight Response

The sympathetic stress response is a survival mechanism that's "hard-wired" into our nervous systems. This automatic response is necessary for mobilizing quick reflexes when there is imminent danger, such as swerving to avoid a car crash.

When you perceive a threat, stress hormones rush into your bloodstream—increasing heart rate, blood pressure, and glucose levels. Other hormones also suppress functions like digestion and the immune system, which is one of the reasons why chronic stress can leave you more vulnerable to illness.

Danger triggers the stress response out of necessity, but unfortunately, so can other things like work conflicts or worrying about debt. Although one bad day at work won't compromise your health, weeks or months of stress can dampen your immune response and raise your risk for disease.

Combat Your Stress

If you suffer from chronic stress and can't influence or change the situation, then you'll need to change your approach. Be willing to be flexible. Remember, you have the ability to choose your response to stressors, and you may have to try various options.

- Recognize when you aren't in control, and let it go. Don't get anxious about situations that you can't change.
- Take control of your own reactions, and focus on what makes you feel calm and in control. This may take some practice, but it pays off in peace of mind.
- Develop a vision for healthy living, wellness, and personal- professional growth. Set realistic goals to help you realize your vision.

Relax and Recharge

Be sure to make time for fun and relaxation so you'll be better able to handle life's stressors. Carve some time out of your day, even 10 to 15 minutes, to take care of yourself. While you can't avoid stress, you can minimize it by changing how you choose to respond to it. The ultimate reward for your efforts is a healthy, balanced life, with time for work, relationships, relaxation, and fun.

De-Stress at Your Desk: Office Yoga

A common place to hold tension in the body, often in response to stress, is in the shoulders, neck and jaw. This stretch will release tension in those areas along with improving flexibility in the shoulder girdle.

Step-By-Step Instructions:

- 1) Sit slightly forward in your chair, feet flat on the floor, legs bent at a 90 degree angle.
- 2) Contract your abdominal muscles slightly, lift up through your chest and lengthen the spine. Look up, then lower your shoulders backwards.
- 3) Place your fingers on the shoulders. As you inhale, bring the elbows forward, then upwards.
- 4) Complete the circle on the exhale by pressing the elbows out to the sides, then behind you and downward.

- 5) That completes one breath cycle and one shoulder circle beginning forward.
- 6) Repeat 3-5 times, then switch directions, beginning the shoulder circles to the back.
- 7) Keep the movements slow and easy while remaining relaxed in the jaw, neck and shoulders.
- 8) After you have completed circles in both directions, relax the arms down.

Driving With Emotions

Stress Behind the Wheel

Most drivers are aware of the effect that things like drinking and cell phone use have on their driving safety, but they give little consideration to other factors that can be even more distracting. Fatigue, stress, and our emotions have a serious effect on driving, and can cause serious impairments that we may not even be aware of. If you are worried, upset, frightened, depressed, or even happily excited, your driving skills can be as negatively impacted as they would be if you were engaged in an intense phone call or after having consumed several alcoholic drinks.

If you are angry, upset or otherwise annoyed, whether due to something unrelated to driving or because of a driving incident, calmly pull over to the side of the road, if possible, or exit the road way and park in a safe location. Take a few moments to close your eyes, take a few deep breaths and relax. If your emotional state is particularly strong, take a short walk, or go get something to drink (non-alcoholic), and just stay off of the road until you have time to settle down.

If you find yourself drifting into worry, depression, or if you are thinking too closely about something that has happened, make a concerted effort to put it out of your mind until you stop the car. Some people find that making a hand gesture of dismissal to themselves helps, as does the distraction of music. Use the energy to focus on your driving, and give yourself time to sort out the troubling issue when you do not have to drive.

If you feel rushed, hurried or impatient, give yourself a bit of extra time before you start out. That will help you avoid getting even more frustrated with slower drivers or other things that are out of your control, such as heavy traffic or an accident. Allowing for extra time means you won't be as likely to start speeding, which can end up saving you a great deal of stress, especially if you end up with a speeding ticket!

Research has proven that human beings in the grip of negative (and sometimes positive) emotions have exhibited a distraction level even more serious than those experienced by cell phone users. Such emotions can cause otherwise excellent drivers to:

- Experience impaired observation and demonstrate poor reaction times.
- Fail to recognize situations, such as an abrupt slowing of traffic or debris in the road.
- Get to the point that they are unable to anticipate what other drivers are doing.
- Drive aggressively with sudden bursts of acceleration, following too closely and braking suddenly.
- Make risky maneuvers, including sudden lane changes or cutting across several lanes of traffic.
- Lose the ability to perform driving skills that require precise timing or other subtle skills.
- Make a driver feel as though he or she is detached from the other drivers, vehicles, or road conditions.

Keeping your emotions under control is very important in order to drive safely. Drivers should refrain from drinking, eating, reading, texting, looking at a map, surfing the internet, applying makeup, or holding your pets while they are driving. As long as your vehicle is in motion, your attention should be on the road and traffic at all times—not distracted by strong emotions.

This Month's Q&A: Ask the Expert

Q: Is it safe to use a hands-free device to talk on a cell phone while driving?

So far, the majority of the research indicates that the mental distraction of having a hands-free phone conversation causes drivers to miss the important visual and audio cues that in most cases would ordinarily help you avoid a crash.

While some say hands-free cell phone use allows motorists to keep their hands free to cope with an emergency, the main issue is distraction while talking on the phone, whether your hands are free or not. What researchers have discovered is, it's really the distraction of talking on the phone that causes the risk. Your mind is elsewhere when you are having a conversation, trying to do two things. This is seen even when having conversations with other passengers.

Driving may seem routine, but it isn't. Driving is complex and it requires your full brain capacity to drive safely. When you are on the phone, you are only using part of your brain to drive.

Distracted Driving: How Many Will it Take?

Motor vehicle crashes killed nearly 33,000 people in 2010, according to the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration. Car crashes are among the top three causes of injury or death throughout a person's lifetime. They also are the #1 cause of work-related deaths. In addition to the thousands of fatalities occurring each year, about 3.5 million people suffer serious injuries in car crashes. The National Safety Council estimates that 24% of all motor vehicle crashes involve cell phone use. Although there can be many distractions in a vehicle, cell phone use by drivers is a particularly deadly threat, not because the activity is the most dangerous thing a driver can do, but because so many drivers are engaging in the behavior and for greater lengths of time. The combination of high risk and high exposure makes cell phone use while driving a top distraction.

Cell phone use has grown dramatically in recently years. In 1995, cell phone subscriptions covered only 11% of the United States population; in 2010, that number grew to 93%. At any one time, 9% of drivers are talking on cell phones, making them 4 times as likely to crash. This has led to a substantial increase in cell phone use, so it is understandable that deaths due to distracted driving is at an all-time high.

Talking on a cell phone while driving requires the brain to multitask—a process it cannot do safely while driving. While a growing number of drivers are turning to hands-free devices, studies show hands-free devices provide no safety benefit. The area of the brain that processes visual information and motion has 37% less capacity to gather and process critical data and instead focuses on the cell phone conversation. It is clear that it's the conversation, not the device, that is dangerous.

Almost 70% of the respondents to the 2010 AAA Foundation for Traffic Safety survey reported talking on a cell phone while driving in the previous 30 days, yet nearly 2 in 3 drivers say that drivers talking on cell phones are a threat to their personal safety. Essentially, people realize that talking on a cell phone while driving is a dangerous behavior, but they continue to engage in this behavior.

Texting has increasingly become the way many people communicate. American teens send and receive an average of 3,300 text messages per month—more than 6 texts every hour they are awake. Sending text messages while driving is extremely dangerous, as it draws a driver's eyes, mind and hands away from the road. On average, texting causes drivers to look away from the road for 4.6 seconds during each glance at their device. A vehicle travelling at 55 mph will cover the length of an entire football field including both end zones while the driver isn't looking.

Drivers texting while driving not only display slower reaction times and have difficulty staying in their lane, but also are less likely to see:

- High and low relevant objects
- Visual cues such as brake lights
- Turn lanes, exits, road signs and red lights.

Drivers using cell phones behind the wheel can miss up to half of the information in their driving environment. Texting while driving increases your chances of a crash at least eightfold. Drivers who type or read text messages contribute to at least 100,000 crashes each year, leading to thousands of preventable deaths. Take the pledge today to stay cell-free while on the road so you are not responsible for the senseless death of another human being. No text is worth a life.

Although cell phone use is commonly thought of as talking and texting, there also are many other aspects of cell phone usage that contribute to the problem of driving while distracted:

- Searching for and dialing phone numbers
- Use of the navigating features
- Using email, Facebook and Twitter
- Plugging a phone into a charger
- Surfing the web
- General manipulation of the phone

Thousands die needlessly each year because people continue to use their cell phones while driving. Driving is a complex task that requires eyes on the road, hands on the wheel and the brain focused on the task of driving. Pledge to drive cell free, pledge like a life depends on it, because it does.

EXERCISE TIP

Cycling is an excellent form of cardiovascular exercise and offers benefits such as weight loss and improved fitness.

If you plan on riding your bike on roads that share traffic with motor vehicles, it's essential that you learn the rules of the road. The Pedestrian and Bicycle Information Center suggests learning the proper hand signals for turns and stopping, as well as riding in the right lane with the flow of traffic. When first beginning road cycling, start on roads that do not have much traffic to get a feel for the rules. Check your local and state laws for road bicycle laws and regulations.

Always wear your helmet when riding, regardless of local laws. The Insurance Institute for Highway Safety estimates helmet use to reduce head injury risk by 85 percent. Wearing a helmet approved by the Consumer Product Safety Commission (CPSC) is the single most important step you can do to avoid a cycling injury.

Lemons: Alkaline Power Food

Lemons are acidic to the taste, but are alkaline-forming in the body. In fact they are among the most alkaline-forming foods. This makes them useful to balance potentially acidic condition in the body. Other facts about lemons include:

- Lemons contain vitamin C, citric acid, flavonoids, B-complex vitamins, calcium, copper, iron, magnesium, phosphorus, potassium, and fiber.
- Lemons have powerful antibacterial properties; experiments have found the juice of lemons destroy the micro-organisms that cause malaria, cholera, diphtheria, typhoid and other deadly diseases.
- Lemons contain 22 anti-cancer compounds, including naturally occurring limonene, an oil which may slow or halt the growth of cancer cells in animals; a group of compounds called flavonol glycosides may also stop cell division in cancer cells.
- Foods rich in vitamin C help to neutralize free radicals linked to aging and most types of disease, may boost the immune system and help ward off infections like the common cold.
- Lemons may help increase muscular contractions of the smooth muscles in the bowels, contributing to regularity and proper elimination of waste.
- Lemons contain more potassium than apple or grapes, which is beneficial to the heart.
- The lemon peel contains the phytonutrient tangeretin, which has demonstrated the ability positively impact brain disorders like Parkinson's disease.

Recipe Corner

Lemon Pound Cake

This wonderful rich, sweet lemon pound cake is downright zingy and the candied lemon slices are a beautiful bittersweet topping that's better than frosting. The best part, though: when you taste it you won't miss all the butter cut out compared with a traditional pound cake recipe. View more spring-time desserts at www.eatingwell.com.

Ingredients

- 1 cup whole-wheat pastry flour or white whole-wheat flour
- 3/4 cup all-purpose flour
- 2 teaspoons baking powder
- 1/4 teaspoon salt
- 3 large lemons, divided
- 1 1/4 cups sugar, divided
- 3 ounces reduced-fat cream cheese at room temperature
- 2 tablespoons butter, at room temperature
- 3 large egg whites, at room temperature
- 1 large egg, at room temperature
- 1/2 cup reduced-fat milk

Directions

1. Preheat oven to 350°F. Coat a 9x5-inch loaf pan with cooking spray; dust with flour and tap out any excess.
2. Sift whole-wheat flour, all-purpose flour, baking powder, and salt together into a medium bowl.
3. Finely grate 2 tablespoons zest from 2 of the lemons; set the lemons aside. Beat 3/4 cup sugar, cream cheese, butter and the zest in a large bowl with an electric mixer on medium-high speed until light and fluffy, about 2 minutes. Beat in egg whites, one at a time, beating well after each addition. Add the egg and beat well. Reduce speed to medium and beat in milk; the mixture will look curdled.
4. Reduce the mixer speed to low and add the flour mixture in 2 batches, beating just until combined and scraping down the sides of the bowl as necessary. Transfer the batter to the prepared pan and smooth the top with a rubber spatula.
5. Bake the cake until a wooden skewer inserted in the center comes out clean, 45 to 50 minutes. Cool in the pan on a wire rack for 15 minutes. Run a knife around the sides and turn the cake out onto the rack. Poke holes into the cake using a fork or wooden skewer.
6. While the cake is cooling, squeeze 5 tablespoons juice from the zested lemons. Trim the ends off the remaining whole lemon and very thinly slice. Heat the lemon juice and remaining 1/2 cup sugar in a nonstick skillet over medium heat, stirring until the sugar is dissolved. Add the lemon slices and cook, stirring frequently, until softened, about 5 minutes. Reduce heat to maintain a simmer. Use a fork to transfer the lemon slices to a bowl. Continue simmering the syrup until slightly thickened and beginning to turn golden yellow, 2 to 4 minutes. Spoon the glaze over the cake; arrange the lemons on top.

Subject: IMPORTANT MESSAGE ABOUT PRESIDENTIAL SEARCH: Updated information available on Finalist #3
Date: April 25, 2013 at 9:21 AM
To: Wofford Students WoffordStudents@Wofford.Edu, Wofford Staff WoffordStaff@Wofford.Edu

To: Wofford faculty, staff, students

On behalf of the Presidential Search Committee, I am pleased to announce that Finalist #3 has now authorized the CV and letter of introduction for this candidate to be posted to the MyWofford site. You may now review these materials there in advance of the candidate's visit to Wofford tomorrow (Friday, April 26).

Also, as a reminder, the times for sessions with this candidate tomorrow are as follows:

10:45 am – 11:30 am Meet with administrative and support staff, McMillan Theater

11:45 am – 12:30 pm Meet with students, Anna Todd Wofford Center

2:00 pm – 2:45 pm Meet with faculty, Anna Todd Wofford Center

4:00 pm – 4:45 pm All-college forum, Leonard Auditorium, Main Building

Please remember that we have been asked to respect the wishes of each finalist to have his or her interest in this position to remain as confidential and unpublicized as possible, and thanks to the Wofford community for your recognition of this need. We look forward to welcoming Finalist #3 to Wofford and to Spartanburg tomorrow!

The Staff Advisory Council (SAC) needs YOU!

Are you interested in serving the college? Would you like to learn more about matters of interest to staff and to work with colleagues from a variety of offices/departments? Could your resume use some leadership or volunteer experience?

We need 12 staff to serve as the very first SAC Representatives. As a Representative, you'll bring matters of interest to staff to a monthly meeting where issues will be discussed and brought to the attention of our new college President. You'll also serve as a point of contact for delivering news and information from the President directly to staff.

You may nominate yourself or other staff members to serve as representatives. Nominations will be accepted until midnight on Wednesday, May 1. You may submit your nomination via the online form on the channel or send it via email to Craig Sudduth (sudduthca@wofford.edu).

The time commitment for Representatives should be about one hour for monthly meetings (scheduled during the lunch hour) and possibly another hour or two during times when information is being gathered about a particular issue or a project is underway.

More information about Representative duties is available on the new Staff Advisory Council Channel in the Employee Tab in myWofford. You can also find more information about the SAC on the channel.

Representative Elections will be held beginning Monday, May 6. In the interest of keeping this email short, please visit the SAC channel for an election schedule and information. If you have questions, I'm happy to answer them, or contact any SAC Ad Hoc Committee member. Their names and email addresses are (you guessed it!) on the SAC Channel.

Thank you for your time, and I hope you'll consider serving as a Representative or nominating someone you respect for the positions. We have an opportunity to have a voice – it's up to us to work together to make that voice strong and effective for our benefit and the benefit of the college.

Nominate a Staff Advisory Council Representative

Details: Are you interested in serving the college? Would you like to learn more about matters of interest to staff and to work with colleagues from a variety of offices/departments? Could your resume use some leadership or volunteer experience? We need 12 Wofford staff to serve as the very first Staff Advisory Council Representatives. As a Representative, you'll bring matters of interest to staff to a monthly meeting where issues will be discussed and brought to the attention of our new college President. You'll also serve as a point of contact for delivering news and information from the President directly to staff. You may nominate yourself or other staff members to serve as representatives. Nominations will be accepted until midnight on Wednesday, May 1. You may submit your nomination via the online form on the Staff Advisory Council channel in myWofford or send it via email to Craig Sudduth (sudduthca@wofford.edu).
